

Deciding the shape of things to come – meeting in public

Almost 11,000 people and organisations have responded to our consultation on plans to introduce specialist stroke and major injury services. Most respondents agreed the plans will give all Londoners the best chance of survival and recovery.

A committee of primary care trusts will now consider all the feedback and decide how and where these services will be provided at a meeting in public.

Meeting details

Monday 20 July 2009, 11am-1.30pm
Kensington Town Hall
Horton Street
London W8 7NY

Papers for the meeting in public will be available on
